MAYER LABORATORIES SELLS DIGITEX® GLOVES TO SHEPARD MEDICAL.

Company to focus on Reproductive Health Products

BERKELEY, CA — Mayer Laboratories announced today that it has sold its Digitex® Glove business to Shepard Medical. “Selling the Digitex Glove business to Shepard Medical provided a chance for Mayer Labs to profitably exit this category, and gave our existing customers a great source for products.” Stated David P. Mayer, President of Mayer Laboratories. “Also, this was an opportunity for Shepard Medical to increase its reach in the retail drug trade.” Mr. Mayer added.

Mayer Laboratories sale of Digitex allows the company to focus more on its core brands in the reproductive healthcare segment under the brands of Kimono® Condoms, fc female condoms®, and Aqua Lube® Lubricants.

The Digitex glove business fits well into Shepard Medical’s CareMates™ infection protection product line that includes high quality latex and synthetic gloves, sanitizing wipes and gels, insect repellent and sunscreen wipes, and masks. CareMates is the leading independent brand, first behind the generic private label brands. Shepard has provided the highest quality gloves for over 20 years, with products meeting the strictest of regulatory quality standards throughout the world. The products offered in the Digitex Glove line will now be sold under the CareMates brand and will continue to be sold across the United States.

Chris Wright, President and Founder of Shepard Medical Products, said, “We are proud to bring Mayer Laboratories’ Digitex Gloves into our Shepard Medical family of products. Mayer has an excellent reputation for providing premium quality products, which fits well with Shepard’s commitment to providing the best products in the marketplace at affordable prices.”
